Smokers Cause Morning Fires

Escanaba Firemen Get Two Calls

Sleeping cigarette smokers brought out the Escanaba fire department for two calls in quick succession early this morning.

The first alarm came at 5:18 a. m. from the Sherman hotel where a guest in a second floor room, Robert T. Lyons, of Chicago, had set his bed and bedding on fire with a cigarette. Lyons had attempted to put the fire out himself, and received help from a man in an adjoining room who notified the hotel desk. Firemen quelled the blaze and carried out smoking bedding without disturbing many of the hotel guests, some of whom had already been awakened by smoke. Fire captain Clarence Schrader estimated the damage at $150.

At 5:52 a. m., just after returning from the hotel fire, the department was called to the rear of the Cleveland tavern at 1111 Ludington street. A man identified as John Flynn, 60, of Cleveland, O., had fallen asleep with a cigarette in a garage at the rear of the tavern, operated by Elmer Sanders. The sleeper's clothing was scorched and there was slight damage to the building, estimated around $50.

Plans Okayed For New Garden Grade School, Gift Of Mrs. Bonifas

Tentative plans for a new Garden grade school, the $150,000 gift of the late Mrs. William Bonifas of Escanaba, were approved last night at a meeting of the Garden board of education and its advisory committee at the Garden community hall.

It is expected that final plans will be ready by the end of the year and that construction will be started early next spring.

Present at the meeting last night were Albert A. Hoover of the architectural firm of Perkins and Will, Chicago; George Gilbert, Marquette, representative of the state department of public instruction in the Upper Peninsula; Hagle Quarnstrom, Delta county school superintendent; and John A. Lemmer, Escanaba school superintendent.

Utilize Old Building A. J. LaVallee, president of the Garden board of education, Lemmer and Quarnstrom form an advisory committee on the school building project for the state department of public instruction, to whom the $150,000 gift of Mrs. Bonifas was bequeathed for the construction of the school at Garden.

Hoover of Perkins and Will presented tentative plans for discussion to the group that included the other board members, Walter Stellwagen, secretary; Harold Goff, treasurer; Dighton Tatrow and George Boudreau, trustees; and an advisory committee to the board: Mrs. Virgil Winters, Mrs. Jack LaCosse and Mrs. Alfred Tebo representing the PTA, and Mrs. Roland Boudreau and Mrs. Lenore Tatrow, teachers.

The new school will be located on the site of the present unused brick school at the north side of the village of Garden, with the present building incorporated into the new one.

Space For 150 Students Total length of the new building will be about 240 feet long and about 50 feet wide, including five class rooms each about 23 by 30 feet in size.

The present school enrollment at Garden is about 115 from kindergarten through seventh grade. Eighth grade and high school students are transported to Cooks and Manistique. After the new building is completed the enrollment there will be about 150, including eighth grade and the students from a school in the northwest part of the township. Transportation of high school students to Cooks and Manistique will continue.

The new school will be modern in design with some of the exterior finished either in brick or stone. It will be complete with heating plant, lighting, furnishings, an office and toilets. The kindergarten room will be about 20 by 48 feet and will provide space for group meetings in the school.

$10,000 Local Funds The school site has 437 feet of frontage on the main street and is 315 feet deep with an area of slightly more than three acres. Plans call for a play area adjacent to the school, and the construction of sidewalks and driveway.

The present brick building on the site, now unused, will be converted into a home economics and manual arts shop. There will also be space for the school hot lunch program.

Cost of remodeling the interior of the present building and some other costs will be assumed by the Garden school district in the amount of $10,000. This is necessary because of rising building costs that will not permit the additional work with the funds left to the district by Mrs. Bonifas.

Hoover told the Garden board of education the new school will require about 10 months to complete after construction is started next spring. Another meeting, probably in December, will be held with the board and advisory group to consider final plans for the project.

Fire Protection For Ford River

Board Enters Contract With Escanaba

FORD RIVER—It has been announced that the Ford River township board has agreed to enter a contract with the city of Escanaba providing for fire department service to residents in the township.

This question has been up for considerable discussion in townships surrounding Escanaba since the announcement by the city that a new scale of charges for such service would be adopted effective today, Tuesday, November 14. The new scale of charges provides for $75 for the first hour or fraction thereof, and $50 for each hour or fraction thereafter.

It must be distinctly understood by the various residents of Ford River township that the township board is entering this contract with the city of Escanaba and is therefore necessarily guaranteeing payment to the city of charges incurred for fire department service, simply in order to obtain the benefit of this fire protection service for properties outside of the city of Escanaba and in the township. It is not to be construed as relieving the residents of the responsibility for payment of the service charges. Actually, the township board will hold any resident responsible for charges for any call to the Escanaba fire department for protection of his property.

It is suggested that if further details of the plan are desired, it would be wise to consult a member of the board or attend the next meeting of the board which will be held the second Wednesday of December at Ford River township hall.

Cerebral Palsy Studied In U. P.

Association Director Visits Escanaba

A survey of cerebral palsy conditions in the Upper Peninsula is being made by Dale S. Renault, state executive director of the recently organized United Cerebral Palsy Association of Michigan, Inc.

Renault was in Escanaba today, on his trip across the Upper Peninsula, and while here he obtained data from local health authorities relating to the number of cerebral palsy victims in this area.

The survey is part of a plan for a state-wide mobilization to combat cerebral palsy. Renault said. The state group was formed last winter.

The survey, which has been conducted the past few months in the Lower Peninsula has resulted in the formation of local UCPA affiliates in several communities, including Detroit, Lansing, Kalamazoo, Muskegon, Benton Harbor, Dearborn, etc. Similar local affiliates will be formed in the larger communities of the Upper Peninsula if there is felt to be sufficient need for such an activated program, Renault said.

In most instances, groups composed of public health authorities, orthopedic teachers, therapists, and parents of the cerebral palsied children.

About 15,000 Cases

"The number of victims of cerebral palsy in Michigan is still uncertain, since no accurate survey has even been conducted," Renault declared. "However, there are more than 15,000 cases, about half of whom are children."

"One of the most tragic aspects of cerebral palsy in the past has been the prevailing opinion that the average cerebral palsied child is feeble minded. In fact, that was the accepted view of even many medical men up until a few years ago. Now, however, medical science realizes that up to 75 per cent of our cerebral palsied children can be rehabilitated and become useful, fairly normal citizens."

"While there is no cure as yet for cerebral palsy, new developments in therapy and treatment have brought great progress in habilitation. The child or adult CP is now being taught how to make greater use of his arms and legs, with the help of special processes and equipment."

Activities Planned

"We have already greatly activated cerebral palsy work in Michigan by expanding clinics and providing scholarships for training of additional therapists so badly needed. An educational program for parents has also been undertaken, and a project will shortly be in operation for the training and employment of cerebral palsied adults."

Permanent Peace Lost

"Permanent peace was lost while a war was won but to no lasting purpose. To understand the present we must refer to the past and bring to light our frightful blunders. Steps which made World War II inevitable were actually taken months before Pearl Harbor by the Benedict Arnold of modern United States history," the Very Rev. Fr. A. C. Pelissier, told an audience of some 200 persons during an Armistice Day dinner-dance, held in the Dickinson hotel.

The occasion was the meeting, in Iron Mountain, of seven of the nine Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus councils, which comprise the U. P. district, and whose officers were installed by Patrick Bennett, of Marquette, master of the Fourth Degree in the U. P.

"We know the past," said the priest, who was introduced by the toastmaster, Walter Dougoveto. "We know the past and we recognize its blunders. It is then fitting and proper that we pause for a moment, on this Armistice Day when we are on the brink of

Taken Into War

"Step by step we were taken into war. Step by step, through the conferences at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam, was laid the groundwork for the war in Korea. Even though victory again be ours," the speaker declared, "it means nothing while we have a state department which not only dabbles but is embroiled in Sovietism. The time was when we were the arsenal of democracy, but we have lost prestige both at home and abroad. It is not too late to reclaim faith in freedom. America must prove itself again the arsenal of spiritual values. Keen America out of foreign wars," the priest urged. "Entry in foreign conflicts cannot preserve Democracy, it can only destroy it. Invariably, personal gain dominates at the price of losing our national worth," he declared.

"Read and learn," he continued, "that all false ideas—diametrically opposed to American Democracy—have become the stockpile of the lecturers, radio commentators, governors, judges, clergymen and citizens who would have us believe Soviet Communism is but another form of democracy. "Along that line, those of us here tonight have lived to see the infiltration of fanatical Soviet sympathizers into strategic government agencies. It is crushing," the Rev. Fr. Pelissier declared. "To note that they encounter no difficulty; that they become workers in the vineyard of glorious America, nourished by national extravagance, while they sow the seeds, the burs and the briars of the sword and 'sickles'."

Editorials—

Deer Hunters, Be Sure That Your Target Is An Antlered Deer

THOUSANDS of hunters armed with high powered rifles and shotguns loaded with heavy slugs will start banging away at deer tomorrow in the opening of the annual deer season. Reports of an abundance of deer are expected to bring out the largest array of hunters in the state's history.

As in years past, many thousands of legal deer will be killed and tagged. And there will be an uncounted number of illegal deer—does and fawns—shot and killed.

Unfortunately, there will also be some hunters killed and others wounded.

Virtually all of the deer hunting accidents are caused by carelessness. Trigger-happy hunters, eager to fill their license, too frequently fire away at the first sign of movement in the woods. A few hunters are struck by stray bullets, but that type of accident is extremely rare. Most of the persons killed or wounded in the deer season are shot because they were mistaken for a deer.

The law permits hunters to kill only male deer with antlers at least three inches long. It is apparent that if the hunter does not fire his gun until he is sure that his target is an antlered deer, there is little chance of mistaking a human for a deer.

The first rule of hunting safety is to be certain that you know what your target is. Scrupulously observe that rule and the chances are extremely small that you will kill or wound another hunter.

Tough Fight Looms For Foreign Aid

IF the recommendations of Gordon Gray, former secretary of the army, are to form the basis for President Truman's foreign aid proposals, the administration is certain to encounter considerable opposition in Congress.

The Marshall plan for opposing Communist aggression by strengthening the economies of 16 western European nations completes its four year program in mid-1952. Gray's report to the president is supposed to establish the basis for a program to succeed the Marshall plan.

The Gray proposals are not specific regarding the cost to the American taxpayers but they would require several billion dollars a year. Gray reported that both economic and military aid will have to be provided by the United States to the western European nations. The rearmament of European nations has taxed the economy of those nations, according to Gray, so that any economic losses sustained because of conversion to war production will have to be paid by the United States.

Some of the proposals recommended by the former secretary of the army would provide economic aid to European nations at the expense of American industries, through sharp reductions in American tariffs.

The American people are willing to help the non-Communist areas of the world prepare their defenses against aggression and the American people realize that assistance from this country will be required. Any program of American aid, however, must be a reasonable one that assumes that the European nations themselves must make sacrifices of their own. The Gray proposals lack much of the realism that congressional leaders will demand in a new program of foreign aid.

THE DEPLETED WELFARE FUND (Green Bay Press-Gazette)

Too many responsible reporters who specialize in labor affairs are charging that the welfare fund of the United Mine Workers has been grossly misapplied, and some say looted, to ignore the matter.

No one is permitted to see the list of about 100 thousand miners who have been receiving monthly checks. And Mr. Liven-good, the Pennsylvania miner who was booted out of the union for questioning the handling of the fund, is not the only miner up in arms against Lewis and his secret and tyrannical methods.

And what are we going to do about it? That is a sizeable question.

Of course, putting Mr. Lewis in charge of these funds, without report and without accounting, was a blunder as big as a mountain. In no other part of our activities do we permit substantial trust funds to be disbursed upon the whim, caprice or say-so of one man or even a little group of men, and without any law or rule concerning those eligible except the pleasure of the one who writes the checks.

But it is going to be hard to try to save these funds for the people for whom they were intended. Anyone who attempts it is a Fascist and a reactionary. Anyone who introduces an act in Congress to halt these abuses is trying to enslave labor.

Questions and Answers

Q—Were Elizabeth Barrett Browning's "Sonnets from the Portuguese" translations?

A—No. The title was used merely as a disguise by Mrs. Browning. In reality the Sonnets were poems expressive of her own love for Robert Browning.

Q—When some one has died, why is he "late"—Mr. So-and-so?

A—It is a convenient way of saying "lately deceased." It should not be used of a person who has been dead for quite some time.

Taft Vote Victory For Individual Rights

SENATOR TAIT'S victory will be the topic of more election postmortems than any in the United States, and rightly so. It was almost a perfect laboratory test of labor's power at the polls.

Organized labor made the greatest effort in its political history to dislodge an incumbent lawmaker. As never elsewhere, it presented a united front. It spent sizable sums, ground out millions of pieces of literature, recruited large numbers from its own ranks first to help register the labor vote and then to get it to the polls, and brought top national labor men into Ohio to press the cause against Taft.

Never before was a man's record in Congress combed so exhaustively for ammunition that could be used against him. By his votes over a 12-year span, Taft was portrayed as an enemy of the worker, the farmer, the veteran and the housewife. He was called a hateful man with a heart of iron, who had no right to ask people to call him "Bob."

What happened as a result of this terrific outpouring of energy?

Taft won re-election by 430,000 votes, the third highest plurality ever gained by a Senate candidate in Ohio history. His total vote was a record for a Senate nominee. He swept 84 of Ohio's 88 counties, and even carried such key labor strongholds as Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron and Dayton.

So labor failed utterly in its biggest test. But why?

In simple terms, it failed because it did not deliver the labor vote as it wished. Jack Kroll, director of the CIO's Political Action Committee and himself an Ohioan, conceded this when he said—"they (the workers) just don't seem to have voted the way we wanted them to."

The labor managers of the anti-Taft fight overlooked many things, but none more important than the evident fact that a worker, like any other American, considers himself a free individual capable of deciding on his own how to vote. You can carry him to the polls, but you can't tell him what to do. He resents dictation, especially from people outside his own state and city.

Taft must have polled from a third to a half of labor's vote, while union men before the election were granting him only a fifth.

Furthermore, labor did not measure accurately the reaction its extreme campaign efforts would stir. Create a big fuss and you most often arouse one in the opposite camp. Just that happened—Taft's campaign was the best organized of his career. He got more money and more help, volunteer and otherwise, than ever before. It was probably the biggest Republican effort at all levels since Wendell Willkie's days.

Labor realized to some degree that this was occurring, but felt its delivery of the labor vote would offset. It perhaps understands now that whipping up a tremendous ballyhoo against a candidate isn't necessarily the way to beat him.

The nation over, this was a campaign marred by distortion and untruth. But nowhere was this more true than in Ohio—except possibly New York—and labor was the guiltiest. It twisted and warped Taft's votes out of all relation to their true meaning. It indulged in outright falsehood. It even took a quote from his father, William Howard Taft, altered it vitally, and stuck it in Taft's mouth.

That Million

By Gordon Martin

When you gather round to shoot the breeze about life's rocky road, and you join your friends in dreaming of a millionaire's abode, you can go around the circle asking everyone to say, what he'd do if it should happen that a million came his way. And the answers that you get reveal a lot of varied plans, if the fates would, of a sudden place a fortune in their hands.

There's a chap who says he'd merely want to live a life of ease while he played his golf and tennis just as happy as you please. There's a lady who would travel and around the world would roam, learning how they carry on their lives in places far from home. And some other guy would build the house he's had a yen to own, while another wants a country place where he could be alone.

Clothes and trips and cars and houses—yep, that's what we want, we think, caring less for other people than a coat that's made of mink. But with sudden wealth, you wonder if an empty life you'd live, should you treasure mere possessions, never learning how to give. And the more you think, you're certain, if a million you could spend, you would know your greatest happiness in helping out a friend.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—This is the kind of column most editors don't like me to write because it's a think-piece, and they don't pay me to think. They pay me to get the inside on cabinet meetings and closed-door sessions, but I get tired allegedly crouching under cabinet tables, and being human, I can't help thinking occasionally.

Recently I've been thinking about some of the discouraging things that have been happening in different parts of the world which we have lost sight of during elections. I've also been indulging in that cheapest of all pastimes—thinking about what I would do if I were running the country. I've even got two ideas to propose to make things better and am almost tempted to write a letter to Harry Truman.

First, however, here are some of the things happening in Europe that haven't hit the headlines and which we have missed because we have been so absorbed in the late battle to control the west bank of the Potomac.

RESENTMENT IN ITALY

In Italy, a country which we have helped out to the tune of about a billion dollars a year, big placards are posted on the streets in English: "Get the hell out and take your money with you." This means us. Naturally the placards are Communist inspired, but one-third of the people of Italy are Communist. . . . Aside from Communists, Italian resentment is so strong against us when we passed the McCarran act holding up Italian passport visas, the Italian parliament seriously debated the banning of all Americans from Italy—even Marshall plan officials—though the tourist trade is a major source of Italian revenue. . . . This is not a pleasant picture, but there is no use keeping our heads in the sand regarding the facts.

In Southern Italy land is being seized every day, and the local priest sometimes accompanies bands of Communist-led peasants when they march into the big landed estates. This is something the Vatican does not condone, but local sentiment regarding the big estates is so intense that frequently the crucifix and the Red flag march side by side. . . . Elsewhere in Italy about 4,000,000 are unemployed, and the extremes of poverty and wealth are so great, with land reforms so long delayed and so piddling, that Communism thrives here as in no country outside Russia. In fact, the Italian Communist party is the second largest in the world with most of the cities in Northern Italy now governed by Communist mayors.

In case of war, Italian defenses would burst like a bubble. This is not pleasant news. Yet we must remember this is a nation we are depending on to resist the Red army.

FRENCH COMMUNIST PARTY

In France exists the third largest Communist party in the world. Though weakened by the Marshall plan and by the century-old tradition of French friendship for the U. S. A., the French Communist party is still strong enough to stymie rearmament. More important, if war came, the French Communists would create a powerful bloc for sabotage and revolt. About fifteen per cent of the French army is Communist, serving under Vichy officers, and the two don't mix. Result: France could not stand up against the Red army more than 48 hours.

Not long ago a big French champagne producer asked a friend of mine:

"What's America going to do to defend France?"

"What's France going to do to defend itself?" replied my friend.

"Nothing," was the Frenchman's reply.

He was both accurate and realistic.

France has made important gains under the Marshall plan. But the man in the street doesn't realize it. He doesn't realize that most of the bread he eats comes from the U. S. A., or that much of the current French prosperity comes from Uncle Sam. He is not unfriendly to the U. S. A.—just cynical and fed up with talk of war. He has fought too many times, and when the next war comes, he plans to sit it out. . . . The Marshall plan, he feels, was a great thing for the factory owner and the government. It rebuilt the big war plants and helped his boss. But what did it do for his wages? They are still low. . . . Actually the Marshall plan has accomplished its main goal. Without it all Western Europe would have gone Communist long ago. But in countries which have not tasted Communist rule, some people think the Communist experiment might be worth trying. They don't know what happened in Czechoslovakia.

Elsewhere in Europe conditions are about the same. . . . The two countries working hardest to help themselves are the Dutch and Norwegians.

PEOPLE ARE FUNNY

Some of our best writers unwittingly create monsters more fantastic than Frankenstein's. This is the result of placing modifiers in the wrong part of the sentence so that the reader connects the modifier with the wrong member.

For example, from a popular textbook: "Bed: The storm broke just as we reached the shore with great violence."

Improved: Just as we reached the shore, the storm broke with great violence.

Modifiers that modify seem to escape the keen eyes of even the best proofreaders, for writers the queer people that are suggested by the following gleamings from various reputable publications:

Saturday Evening Post: "Together they barged through the red-striped ticket-rellers' booth." Of course, it was the booth, and not the ticket-seller that had red stripes.

From the real-estate page of a large daily: "Mr. and Mrs. Gannet have purchased a colonial house from C. G. Knight, a well-known realtor, that will be their future home."

John Butler's Hand Took a Licking In Politics, But It Beat Tydings

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent BALTIMORE, Md.—(NEA)—John M. Butler has only one basic weakness in his debut as a politician. He has to soak his right hand in hot-epson salts every night after a hard day of hand-shaking.

Despite this weakness, however, he amazed the professional politicians working with him; they wondered why such an adept campaigner had never run for office before. Later also amazed the professionals by beating veteran U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings on his first try.

His background and natural talent for politics is something a campaign manager dreams about.

At 11, the clear-eyed, ambitious young Butler had to quit school and start selling papers to help supplement the income from his father's lagging real estate business. He soon shifted to a Baltimore mattress factory at $3 a week. This was interrupted by 26 months of service in World War I, including overseas duty with the 110th Field Artillery of the 29th Division. He came out a corporal.

Butler's struggle to succeed, in the American tradition, then got hot: Work all day, study all night to get the equivalent of a high school diploma. Overcome more odds to get into Johns Hopkins University. Still working. Then football coach sees possibilities in hard-working scholar. Scholar first resists, then tries out for team. He makes good. Becomes hero. And finally graduates with honors and nickname of "Butts."

He turned down the usual offers of a successful athlete and worked his way through Maryland University Law School. After that it was a highly successful law career, nicely blended with a happy marriage and three children.

Friends first saw Butler's possibilities as a foe for Tydings because of his work on the Baltimore City Service Commission, which administers the city employees civil service system. He was appointed to the job, and helped make it one of the city's outstanding functions. "Whatever John tackled, he tackled hard," the University of Maryland yearbook said of Butler.

This proved true again when he took out after Tydings. He did his campaigning the hard way, driving, from town to town, shaking hands, meeting people and making speeches when he got an audience.

His campaign was a well-thought-out plan of attack on his opponent. He picked the two best national issues, communism and the Korean war, and nailed Tydings to the wall with both of them.

He accused Tydings of being soft on the Communies by claiming a whitewash of the probe, which Tydings headed, into Sen. Joe McCarthy's charges of Red influence in the State Department. He blamed Tydings for a big share of unemployment for Korea, because Tydings was chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee.

Tydings never got off the defense, but seemed to be taking out after Butler, which wouldn't have been an easy task.

Butler's own explanation for his entry into politics is that "I consider myself above all else a good American." He adds:

"I thought we needed some of those people in the Senate to scream about some things. Not that I'll scream—I'm a right quiet kind of man."

JOHN M. BUTLER AND WIFE: "I'm a right quiet kind of man."

However, quiet, the bushy-browed man with the soft Maryland drawl may turn out to be an interesting substitute for Tydings' caustic wit and barbed debate, which apparently failed to impress Butler.

"He's just roaring like a frightened old lion caught in a drafty cage," Butler observed once during his campaign against Tydings.

No End Of American Aid To Europe Now In Sight

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A report made public last night by President Truman must be a jolt for anyone who, wanting his income tax cut, hoped this country might soon stop pumping help into Europe.

This report was given the president by Gordon Gray, former Secretary of the Army.

Last March 31 the president asked Gray to study, and then recommend to him, what course this country should follow in giving economic help abroad in the future.

It can be summed up briefly: It calls for spending a lot of money for some years to come. Billions, in fact. But, of course, whether Congress will go along with this is something else.

Red Troubles Mount

The Marshall plan for helping Europe was started in 1948 and was supposed to end June 30, 1952.

Its purpose: To help Europe get on its feet economically and so prevent a collapse which would open the doors to communism.

But since this country started putting billions into Europe in 1948, relations with Russia have gone from bad to worse.

So much worse, in fact, that this country joined the North Atlantic military alliance with Western Europe against Russia.

So, in addition to the Marshall plan economic aid, this country started giving Europe military aid.

Then in June, 1950, war broke out in Korea. In this fighting the U. S. realized how poorly equipped it was for a major war. So it began its great defense program.

This defense program called for the U. S. allies in the Atlantic Pact to rush their own defense programs—with U. S. help.

So here was the Marshall plan, with two years still to go, and the defense program added to it. And a new question arose:

If Europe, getting on its feet, now has to turn some of its production from civilian goods to weapons, will its economy be damaged all over again? And to make up for the damage, will the Marshall plan or some aid program like it have to be continued after June 30, 1952?

This is where Gray's report comes in: It sees ahead for us a three- or four-year program of continued help.

For instance, he thinks we'll have to continue giving some kind of economic help when the Marshall plan ends two years from now. And he thinks military help.

He suggests Western Europe might have been able to become economically healthy by the time the Marshall plan is due to end if this new crisis with Russia hadn't arisen. But, with European factories turning to armaments, he thinks the economic aid will have to be continued.

In addition, Gray suggests this country must help the underdeveloped areas of the world.

Bickering Assured

(a) To raise living standards there, which would be a block to communism; and (b) To step up in those backward areas the production of raw material.

There are just some of the suggestions he made in his report. He had the help of many government agencies and officials in putting it together.

Although President Truman may not follow Gray's suggestions in every detail, he probably will follow the recommendations in a general way.

Then when the new Congress—elected last week—opens up shop next January, Mr. Truman will submit to it his economic and military spending programs.

You can get set now for the deluge of bickerings, debates, statements, and conflicts. It will last for months. It seems safe to say this country's whole future will be wrapped up in the decision.

UNDERSTANDING—The world today may be divided between the Democratic West and the Communistic East—but in Michigan there are also two worlds: One for the deer hunters and the other for men who stay at home.

Many people (particularly wives of hunters) say they are unable to understand their men who are willing to camp out at this time of year. Ordinarily, they point out, their men like a warm house, hot meals served on time, a comfortable lounging chair and a soft bed.

To create better understanding between wife and deer hunting husband, we would like to explain why it is that for 15 days or so each November, some men are not only willing but eager to forego the comforts of civilization for the discomforts of the hunting camp.

THE WOMAN'S FAULT—In the majority, men live in a world dominated by women. They may not fully realize it, but there is a subconscious revolt in their souls against keeping things neat and tidy, putting cigar ashes away in the ash tray, being punctual to the point of exasperation whether it be appearance on the job or at the table.

Among the stronger individuals in the male fraternity this feeling of revolt breaks out in actual violence at times—when men pick up their rifles, order their wives around like flunkies, and depart for the woods with a careless farewell kiss.

It is times like these that try a woman's tidy and domineering soul.

GETTING STARTED—Even if the little woman is miffed by the sudden disinterest on the part of her husband, she can make herself solid by being a good helpmate to the bitter end.

On her will fall much of the responsibility of locating the woolen underwear and pants that have not been used since last year; finding that part of a box of rifle shells hidden in the bottom bureau drawer; and conferring with the wives of other members of the party on what will be supplied to keep the hunters from starvation at the end of the third day.

For women know by experience that men are just little boys at heart, likely to remember a compass but forget a box of salt; sure to tally the amount of beverage required but prone to overlook the potatoes.

BUYING SUPPLIES—Hunters always engage in a mad scramble of buying supplies for the hunting season. And usually the supplies run heavy to certain items without which no hunting trip would be complete.

There must be pancakes every morning, served with ham or bacon. Noon lunch is usually eaten in the woods and consists of a sandwich, an apple or two, and a piece of chocolate.

Supper is the second big meal of the day and includes meat and potatoes and plenty of bread. Every camp looks forward to the day the first deer is killed, when fried liver will grace the table. If there is a camp license, steaks and roasts may also be served when and if the camp deer is brought in.

AFTER HOURS—The hours following supper and bedtime are devoted to pastimes unknown outside of a hunting camp.

The hunters relate their experiences of the day and improve on fact with a liberal trimming of fiction. Stories grow and grow—the big buck becomes larger than a full-grown moose; the tracks reach proportions observed only on game trails in Darkest Africa; and the shots that were missed were the closest misses ever recorded.

After regaling each other with tales that are of interest only to another hunter and trying to play a game of stud poker without falling asleep because of the day's fresh air and exercise, the hunters hit the hay. They roll out in the morning fresh as a piece of wilted lettuce and stumble through the woods to the deer runway.

Fifteen days later (sometimes sooner if successful) they come home to rest up. They may not say so, but the coming home is the pleasant climax to their trip. If they had to stay in camp all winter not many of them would go deer hunting.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Escanaba—Capt. William C. Fontaine of Buffalo, N. Y., was dragged through choppy waters of Sac Bay at 6:30 a. m. yesterday, nearly the last man to be rescued from the 416-foot steamship Sinaloa which went aground on a rock ledge just inside Sac Bay Tuesday. He was among the last of 19 men to be rescued from the steamship by the Munising Coast Guard patrol which arrived at midnight and began rescue operations. Hardy fishermen from Garden, Fairport and Fayette began rescue work Tuesday and took 22 men off the distressed ship. Eleven crew members are receiving treatment in St. Francis hospital. In Michigan, the toll of deaths following the wintry storms has passed the 100 mark, amid indications waters of Lake Michigan would cast up bodies of still more victims.

20 YEARS AGO

Escanaba—As their first step in assisting unemployed in Escanaba, the city council last night adopted a plan for a municipal wood-cutting project which will provide work for a good-sized group of men. Wood will be cut from the John K. Stuck, Jr., tract of timber near Little Lake, will be hauled to Escanaba, and distributed to needy families.

Escanaba—Charles Gunderson, W. H. Hoieth, Joseph Huigen, O. J. Protz and J. J. Boucher have been appointed to the grounds committee of the new golf club, which is building a course at Ford River Switch. Dr. G. A. Cotton is president of the club.

Beale Street Has Own Talk

It's Mixture Of Jive And Jargon

By ROBERT C. RUARK
MEMPHIS—I hope none of my Beale Street friends will accuse me of playing the dozens as a result of this piece and jump salty, wig off and blow, because I am not strictly a cold nose Joe.

I have merely consulted with Prof. Nat Williams, the unofficial mayor of the fabled thoroughfare on how its denizens speak these days, which seems to be sharp as a carp, or nothing but fine. Mr. Williams is the first Negro with sufficient courage, in these parts, to attempt a career as disc-jockey, and in his spare time he teaches at Booker T. Washington high school. Been doing it for about 20 years—teaching, I mean.

I know well that when you grin, you're in, and you better put and stay out, which means that if you laugh somebody comes along you head, which means a bust in the snoot, and not even cousins play the dozens. So I will explain the dozens. It is a sport peculiar to this portion of the south.

Beale Street Slang
When you are playing the dozens, cat, you are standing on a corner knocking somebody's relatives, mainly female. "Big boy" is a "dozens" word. Professor Williams describes it thus:

"When you call a man big boy from the gravel pits you are saying that he is a country man of pretty low economic status and his mama ain't nowhere. This is a fighting piece from Memphis to Detroit."

Beale Street has developed a slang today that is a distant east from the old, high-rolling years when Beale, Rampart and Basin were the principal sin spots of the Delta. Nobody on Beale today—or few folks, at least—could define an "easy rider" for you. An easy rider used to be a big ol' buck gambling man.

The new talk is one part jive, one part cockney thieves' jargon, and one part pure Negro inspiration.

For instance, a lad does not tell his lass he will see her in the morning. "I got to knife on out," he will say. "I will dig you in the early bright, baby." "Knife on out," is a synonym for "I got to cut," which means leave.

You could never use "swift man" today as a definition for a fellow who derives his livelihood from shady ladies. A pander, is delicately defined as a gent, who is "puttin' on a slight hustle."

A cop is "roach." When a Beale Street bravo says, "man you better reach for your Cook's Kill," it means the cops are imminent. Cook's Kill is a local insecticide.

Merely Saying Hello
One cat will approach another cat in the shank of the evening and remark: "Say, man, what's happenin'?" He is not seeking information, but is merely saying hello. The answer is "ain't nothin' shakin'."

Money on Beale Street now is "ends." Comes from "making ends meet." Twenty-five cents is a "rough." A dime is a "deese." When a man is busy talking and a bore horns in, the Beale Street boy remarks, simply: "Later for you." Then all his friends slap their thighs and say: "Man, you sure did gas that guy." When you gas a guy you got him. He just got to cut.

When a sharp chick comes down the street, quivering gently the solid way a chick can shake, all the boys lean back and murmur: "Ahhhh, but it is..." If her four-eyed, box ankled sister follows in her wake, they lean forward and snarl: "Ahhhh, but it ain't." Let's say a cat is looking low. Another cat comes by and says "come on, man, let's peck on that rock." First cat says: "I ain't no-

Farming Is Big Business Now

Farm Investment Has Increased

Farming has become an expensive business—in terms of both farm investment and operating expenses. Evidence of just how fast the amount of money needed to farm in Michigan has increased in recent years comes from Warren Vincent, Michigan State College agricultural economist. The following figures are from records of nearly 1000 Michigan farmers working with M.S.C. and county agricultural agents in accounting projects.

Total farm investment increased an average of $1,300 every year since the end of World War II. The average farm investment in 1949 was $23,346 for a farm of 198 total acres. About $12,000 of this was in real estate, the remainder in personal property—machinery and equipment, live-stock, and feed and growing crops.

Vincent points out, however, that this is a conservative real estate value according to current prices. Farmers in the accounting project were advised to maintain constant "normal" values on land and conservative values on other real estate for uniformity in their records.

Adjusted to current prices, the total farm investment would be over $35,000 with about two-thirds of this amount in real estate.

Operating expenses, including a charge for the operator's labor more than tripled since the pre-war period 1935-39. These expenses are now twice what entire gross farm incomes were in those years.

As this increase took place significant changes were made. Before the war machinery accounted for only about 15 per cent of total operating expense, but had increased to 22 per cent in 1949. During the same time labor expense declined from 48 to 37 percent as machine-power steadily replaced manpower.

While the number of men per farm was being reduced, average farm size jumped from 162 to 198 acres and productivity per man increased 28 percent.

Williams Leading In Ballot Muddle

that the vote on a referendum to permit the sale of colored oleomargarine inadvertently was put into the gubernatorial tally book.

With the correction, Williams gained 509 votes over-all.

Its effect on the oleo vote was only trifling. Oleo's sale was overwhelmingly approved.

Election officials had been skeptical of the Macomb vote since they noticed the precinct, normally a Democratic stronghold, had reported a heavy majority for Kelly.

Other errors ranging from mis-copying of totals off voting machines to poor arithmetic were reported previously. Virtually all of yesterday's corrections were in Williams' favor.

The morning after last Tuesday's election, Kelly had what appeared to be a safe, though small, margin of slightly over 6,000 votes.

Unless the situation is straightened out by the first of the year, the acting governor will be Republican Lieutenant-Gov. Elect William C. Vandenberg.

LINDEN, N. J.—(AP)—An 8,000 gallon ammonia tank blew up last night at the giant DuPont chemical plant here, belching flames 100-feet into the air and set off a war scare in the area.

The erupting storage tank, located on the second floor of a weed-killer manufacturing building, wrecked the building, damaged others at the sprawling plant and shattered windows in Elizabeth, five miles away. Twelve men were treated for cuts and bruises.

Acrid ammonia fumes carried across to Staten Island and lower Manhattan in New York.

Chinese Reds Guard Manchuria From Russia, Says Nimitz

TUCSON, Ariz.—(AP)—Admiral Chester N. Nimitz says the Chinese Reds have used the Korean war as an excuse to move troops into Manchuria for protection from Russia.

The admiral estimated Mao Tse-tung, China's Red leader, has between 300,000 and 500,000 troops now in Manchuria. He said he is convinced the troops are there to protect Manchuria from the Russians and to secure China's share of the Yalu river hydro-electric power.

"Manchuria," he said in an interview last night, "is as important to China as the Ruhr is to Europe. It is the one place in Asia where there is a combination of coal and iron ore for steel making."

"Mao knows that if the lot of the Chinese people is to be improved, Manchuria's production is indispensable. The Russians would like to see a good portion of that production flowing toward the Soviet Union."

Nimitz, now a public relations adviser to the United Nations, stopped off here to visit friends.

Dynamite Bomb Plot Revealed At Soo, Ontario

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont.—(AP)—A dynamite plot that may have been aimed at Canada's top defense officials was reported today to Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Chief of Police Irvin Robertson of this strategic border city revealed that two sticks of dynamite and a fuse were found buried less than a block from a stand where the Hon. Brooke Claxton, Canadian Minister of National Defense, was to speak last Sunday.

The dynamite was found five days after a can of inflammable powder was discovered on the same site.

Robertson said an unnamed citizen's tip led to the discovery of the dynamite and possibly saved Claxton and other high defense officials from injury or death.

The site was an area where a new $1,000,000 armory is being constructed here.

Claxton appeared at the Canadian Sault Sunday to take part in cornerstone-laying ceremonies.

Already on the alert after the earlier discovery of the inflammable powder, police were tipped off to the dynamite two hours before Claxton was scheduled to speak.

Robertson refused to name the tipster.

Although an explosion could have done little damage to the project itself, scores of persons could have been harmed had the bomb exploded Sunday.

Republican Delegation From Michigan To Be Potent One In House

By JOE HALL
AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Michigan Republican congressmen retained their position as one of the most potent state delegations on the House minority side after the Nov. 7 voting.

Had the G.O.P. national sweep proved big enough to give the party control of the House, four Michigan representatives would have headed committees in the 82nd Congress. This would have been the biggest number held by any state.

Top Rank In Minority
The four are: Jesse Wolcott, banking and currency; George Dondero, public works; Fred Crawford, public lands; and Clare Hoffman, expenditures in the executive departments.

As it is, they remain as the top-ranking minority member of the committees. These posts carry some prerogatives, such as the right to manage the minority side of the floor debate on bills handled by their committees.

In addition, the four stay in strategic position to take over the committee chairmanships if the Republicans win control of Congress in the 1952 elections, as they now hope.

Tax Legislation Coming
Two returning Michigan Democratic congressmen also will have positions of influence in the 82nd Congress.

Rep. John Dingell will keep his third-ranking majority position on the potent ways and means committee.

Rep. Louis Rabaut is expected to continue in his important role on the big appropriations committee. He is far down the list in seniority on the Democratic side but he has been the right hand man of Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.), the committee chairman, on many matters in the current session.

Rep. Roy Woodruff, Republican dean of the entire Michigan delegation, is the second-ranking minority member of the ways and means committee.

Both he and Dingell will find themselves in the thick of one of the most important issues of the new session, since the committee writes new tax legislation.

Woodruff Serves 17th
Michigan congressmen own their key positions to their state's habit of re-electing the same representatives year after year. Some Detroit districts as well as most of those outstate have done this.

Committee chairmanships and other posts of influence on Capitol Hill almost invariably are handed out on the basis of seniority.

Woodruff will be serving his 17th term in the next Congress. Other Michigan members with high seniority: Wolcott, 11 terms; Dingell and Dondero, 10 each; Crawford and Hoffman, nine each; William Blackney (R), Rabaut and Paul Shafer (R), eight each; George O'Brien (D), six.

Two Wolverine state G. O. P. members are well up the seniority list on the armed services committee, which undoubtedly will be one of the most important groups in the 82nd Congress. Shafer is fourth-ranking on the minority side, Blackney seventh.

The Michigan G. O. P. delegation would have carried even more weight had it not been for two retirements this year.

Rep. Earl Michener, quitting after 15 terms, currently is the highest Republican in seniority on the judiciary committee. He headed that group when his party controlled the 80th Congress.

Woman Beats Democrats
Rep. Albert Engel now is fourth-ranking G. O. P. man on the appropriations committee. He would have moved up to third spot had he not left Congress to make an unsuccessful bid for his party's gubernatorial nomination in Michigan.

Engel is one of the leading congressional experts on armed services expenditures. His colleagues expect him to be sadly missed as defense outlays continue to mount. He has served eight terms.

The outcome of the Michigan congressional voting, which left the delegation 12-to-five Republican just as it was after the 1948 election, was no great surprise to strategists of both parties here.

Republicans had not been too hopeful of picking up any of the five Detroit seats held by the Democrats.

The Democrats had thought they could win in Engel's old district, the ninth but Ruth Thompson of Whitehall surprised them to hold the seat for the G. O. P. and give the state its first congresswoman.

The Detroit area may pick up another seat in the reapportionment which will follow the 1950 census. Michigan is slated to gain one congressman and much of its population increase has been in and near Detroit.

A litter at least six inches deep in the floor of the laying house will be kept the house dry during damp winter months, say Michigan State College extension poultrymen.

Big Brother Reds Aid Koreans Who Were Losing Face

By HAL BOYLE
WITH U. S. EIGHTH ARMY, Korea—(AP)—"Big Brother" China crossed over to help out "Little Brother" North Korea only after both became Communist comrades—and "Little Brother" was losing face.

Before both became Communist, big brother usually stayed at home, no matter who was blacking little brother's eye.

This time China crossed the border not against a nearby bold and natural enemy such as Japan. It went against the will and hope of the United Nations, a new world organization which neither has accepted Red China nor invaded it.

High Officers Escape
A link in the chain of belief by American Intelligence officers that Communist nations are getting closer tonight in their network of military operations is the escape of the North Korean general staff from South Korea.

U. N. forces killed only one enemy general officer in the campaign—at least the only one the enemy has admitted. He was a lieutenant general Kang, reported variously to have been a Soviet citizen, a captain in the Soviet army and a high officer in the Chinese Communist army.

So far the divers have hauled up more than 5,000 empties, each worth 2 cents. The proceeds were turned over to the Naval air station's welfare and recreation fund.

No general of the North Korean army surrendered or was captured. Only one senior colonel and two lieutenant colonels surrendered. None was captured. There finally were several mass surrenders of troops among the 135,000 taken prisoner. None gave up as units under command of their own officers.

Trained Like Soviets
The big guns either fled the U. N. advance under orders or later crossed U. S. Eighth Army lines, some in civilian clothing. A few are still trying to do that.

In the last World War, high officers of Germany and Japan either committed suicide, were captured in combat, or surrendered with their units. They fought as armies and gave up as armies. Nazi Germany's Adolf Hitler killed himself. Red Korea's Kim Il Sung fled. What is the difference?

U. S. Intelligence officers believe the difference is that the German and Japanese leaders had to kill themselves on principle or give up through failure because there was no "big brother" to offer refuge or help.

"They were basically nationalistic," is the way one American officer put it.

But the North Koreans have been largely trained in Soviet Russia or China. They were taught by the International Communists. If they lost a war in their own country, their goal was to pull back to the nearest Communist country and work to begin it again. They put Communism above country.

And, as the defeated North Koreans withdrew to reorganize, the Chinese Communists crossed the

Miss Patricia Seaman, who spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Seaman, returned Monday to her nursing border to delay the issue. The world thus faces its first big challenge of Communism fighting in octopus defense depth.

This, say U. S. Intelligence officers, essentially is based on one Red country backing another Red country—with the lines of instructions coming from Moscow.

Bark River

Mazur-Niemasik
BARK RIVER—Chrysanthemums adorned the altar of St. Fidelis church of Chicago for the wedding of Miss Angeline Mazur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Mazur of Perronville, and Leon Niemasik, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Niemasik of Chicago.

The double ring ceremony October 28, was read by Father Jerry. Traditional bridal music was offered by the church choir. Mrs. Anthony Sala, friend of the bride, sang the "Ave Maria" as the bride placed her bouquet on the altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Mrs. John Pietrowski of Perronville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Bonk, Miss Mary Semko and Mrs. Trifilio, served as bridesmaids, and Miss Janice Pietrowski, niece of the bride, served as the tiny bridesmaid. Attending as the junior bridal couple were Miss Patricia Galkowski the bridegroom's niece, and the nephew of the bride, Walter Welch, Jr., of LaBranche. Mr. Niemasik was attended by Joseph Bonk, best man, Stanley Malin, groomsmen, and Louis Trifilio, usher.

Miss Mazur wore a gown of white slipper satin, with seed pearls and rhinestones trimming the sweetheart neckline. The long sleeves of the gown tapered to a point over the wrist and the skirt ended in a long train. The bride's imported silk illusion veil was caught to a crown of small seed pearls and rhinestones. A string of pearls, a gift of the groom, was her only adornment. She carried a bouquet of orchids and white roses tied with white streamers.

The attendants wore identical gowns of slipper satin and lace, styled with high necklines, full skirts, and peplums of matching lace adorned with rhinestones. Mrs. Pietrowski's gown was of rich gold, Mrs. Bonk's was orchid, Miss Semko wore an ice-blue gown, while Mrs. Trifilio wore an aqua. Janice wore an identical gown of pink satin. All carried bouquets of chrysanthemums and mums tied with wide ribbons matching their gowns. Patricia, the tiny bride, wore a gown identical to the bride's and carried a bouquet of white roses tied with white streamers.

Mrs. Mazur mother of the bride wore a street-length dress of cocoa crepe with matching accessories. Mrs. Niemasik chose a cocoa gown trimmed with lace and beads, and wore brown accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow roses.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Niemasik home for the bridal party. The reception was held at the Good Shepherd's Hall in Chicago for 300 guests.

The young couple left on a wedding trip through Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan. The new Mrs. Niemasik chose a cocoa knit suit with brown velvet accessories and an orchid corsage for going away.

The out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John Pietrowski and daughter, John Gruska, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Mazur of Perronville; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Welch and children and Miss Dolores Welch of LaBranche; and Mrs. Joseph Balos of Blue Island, Illinois.

Of Novena Services

The book review sponsored by the Escanaba Deanery which was to have been given by Miss Bernadette Brennan Wednesday evening, Nov. 15, at 8 at the Bonifas residence, has been postponed due to a conflict in dates with the annual novena services to Our Lady of Perpetual Help at St. Patrick's church.

This novena is to be given this year by Rev. James Kelley of the Redemptorist Order of Chicago. It opens this evening at 7:30 and will continue with services each evening at that hour

NEW YORK—(NEA)—For fall and winter weddings, New York designers place equal importance on the ankle-length and the full-length gown. The choice of a length depends largely on the size of the wedding and the degree of formality. But the ankle-length dress has a certain added practicality since it can be worn after the wedding.

Satin and lace are, of course, favored fabrics and color emphasis is on white. The pale pastels, however, are pretty for informal weddings, in net and lace.

One very formal portrait dress in white satin has a fairly deep cape-collar heavily embroidered in pearls. Sleeves are long and tight, tapering to a point over the hand. The waist is smoothly-fitted and the skirt, which falls into soft gathers, ends in a long, full train. A bridesmaid's gown in pale pink lace is ankle-length. The squared neckline is slightly scalloped and the sleeves are mere shoulder caps of lace. A wide skirt flounce in delicate rose-gray net is matched by sheer, elbow-length mittens.

White satin fashions a semi-formal bridal dress which has tiny collar and narrow peplum in heavy white lace. Small self-covered buttons are placed from neckline to waist. The skirt, which is softly gathered, is separate.

Guild Meeting
At Garrard Home

Westminster Guild of the First Presbyterian church will meet at 8:15 Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. M. H. Garrard, Jr., 1106 Seventh avenue south. Mrs. Robert Gillespie will be assisting hostess and will give the devotions. The musical program will be under the direction of Mrs. Garrard.

Proper Hose Will
Veil Leg Faults

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

The beauty consciousness of many women seems to end at their hem lines. Their legs, apparently regarded as purely functional, receive only a minimum of attention.

Such dutiful routines as keeping your legs clean, smooth and neatly clad are quite sufficient—provided you're interested only in locomotion.

If, however, you'd like to play up one of your best beauty bets, more attention is due your knee-to-ankle area.

Look at your legs with the same frankly-critical eye with which you examine your hips or your neck. If your calves fall short of ideal proportions, admit it and join ranks with the many other women facing the same problem.

Illusion is one of your best allies in minimizing leg imperfections. Properly-chosen hose can aid you in veiling a number of faults.

If your legs are plump, choose hose with dark seams which will show up clearly against your legs.

The resultant vertical line will make them appear more slender. For ankles which are too heavy, try stockings with elongated heel reinforcements that extend upward above the backs of your shoes. These have a slimming effect upon the lower legs. Particularly effective for this purpose are this season's heel-interest hose which also flag attention to pretty ankles.

Seamless hose in neutral colors are often helpful in adding illusory pounds to too-thin shanks. The eye follows the horizontal round of the leg, with no vertical break by a seam.

Most important of all is your attitude toward your legs. Many women adopt a don't-care-anyway front, and sheathe their legs in any kind of thick or baggy stockings that comes to hand.

They let their hose wrinkle at the ankles; they allow their seams to wriggle, feeling their legs are worthy of no better treatment.

The fallacy of this is obvious. The less lovely your legs, the more they need the flattery of carefully-selected, well-kept hose.

It's easy to dust a pleated lampshade if you use a man's shaving brush.

THAT MAN MARSHALL

WORLD WAR CITATION: "He takes his place at the head of great commanders of history."

Within five years General of the Army George Catlett Marshall has scored a double as a No. 1 military man.

As Army Chief of Staff in World War II he was the professional head of the nation's military establishment. Now he's been plucked from retirement at the age of 69 to become the new Secretary of Defense. When he returned to Washington from the quiet of his Leesburg, Va., home to take up his new duties, he turned to a group of photographers and said, smiling: "This is where I came in."

Marshall has known little rest in the 48 years since he went off as a second lieutenant to join the 30th Infantry in the Philippines in 1902. A few years later he won honors as a student at the Army Staff College, then became instructor. In July of 1917 he went to France with the first convoy of the First Division. In a little over a year he rose to become Chief of Staff of the Eighth Army Corps.

The years between the two world wars found him rising in rank, increasing in prestige. He became America's Chief of Staff on Sept. 1, 1939—the day the Nazis attacked Poland and launched World War II. After allied victory, he retired in 1945. But, a few months later, he was recalled to duty, this time as President Truman's personal envoy to China. He stayed there about a year, returned to become Secretary of State and author of the Marshall plan. In January, 1949, illness forced him to quit and undergo an operation. He retired once more to Leesburg. But his stay was again short-lived. He's once more in the harness.

YOUNG MARSHALL, top right, rose from first corporal to first captain of V.M.I. cadet corps.

CHIEF OF STAFF Marshall chats with Winston Churchill and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson at paratroopers' exhibition, Fort Jackson, S.C., June 1942.

FIRST WORLD WAR. Colonel Marshall works away at First Army headquarters, France.

SECRETARY OF STATE: Toasts are drunk by Marshall and Molotov at London in 1947.

LIKES surf. He takes dip at Fire Island, N.Y.

ENVOY: In China, Marshall meets Chiang Kai-shek, U. S. Ambassador Dr. J. Leighton Stuart.

MARSHALL admires granddaughter Ellene Winn, held by mother, Mrs. Molly Winn.

HOME at Leesburg, Va., where Marshall lived outdoor life, riding horseback, fishing.

AT REST: Letters are read by Marshall and wife in Honolulu.

Club Officers Are Re-Elected

Annual Meeting Held By Golfers

Officers of the Indian Lake Country club were re-elected at the annual meeting Saturday evening at the clubhouse.

Re-elected were R. G. Hentschell, president; P. P. Stamness, vice president; and Fred H. Hahne, secretary-treasurer.

Three directors whose terms expire this year also were re-elected for three years. They were A. J. Cavia, Barney Johnson and Vern Dufour. Elwood Taylor was named to replace Richard Wille as director. Wille, who had two more years to serve, is leaving this month to take a new position in Milwaukee.

Various committee reports also were given at the session, and plans were outlined for the completion of the new clubhouse before the opening of the 1951 golfing season.

Following the meeting a dance was held and a smorgasbord lunch served. Approximately 50 persons were present.

Thompson Hatchery Soon To Receive Trout Egg Stock

In preparation for the planting of legal-size trout in 1951 and 1952, arrangements are now being completed by the department of conservation for the delivery of brook and brown trout eggs to the Thompson fish hatchery, and other hatcheries in the state.

The Thompson rearing center will receive its allotment of 2,300,000 brook trout eggs from an eastern hatchery. Delivery is slated for December and January.

Also scheduled for the Thompson rearing center is a share of 1,500,000 eggs to be stripped from hatchery-raised brown trout at the Paris hatchery.

A total of 2,000,000 rainbow trout eggs will also be taken from rainbows at the Harrietta hatchery and allocated to various hatcheries.

Fish crews are now winding up 1949 releases on those streams open to fall fishing as well as regular fall lake plantings. Little or no natural reproduction in many lakes and streams necessitates trout planting to provide even a fair measure of trout fishing, department officials reported.

Anchor Ice Clogs River At Brewery Dam Sunday; City Deprived Of Water

Manistique was deprived of its water supply for about an hour and a half Sunday morning when anchor ice clogged the brewery dam on the Indian river and partially shut off the river flow.

Lack of water in the city's gravity main which brings water from the river to the pumping station, was noticed at 6:20 a. m. when the automatic pumps stopped operating. Frank Gierke, Jr., pumping station attendant, reported to City Manager H. W. Heideman, who with Orson Livermore, street superintendent, and Elmer Anderson, another pumping station employee, joined Gierke in the search for the trouble.

Fearing a break in the gravity main, the men scanned the ground over the line to Intake Dam where water enters the main from the river. Here the top of the intake pipe was found to be protruding from the surface of the river. The river level was down about a foot and a half.

It took the four men about an hour and a half to chop the ice away from the brewery dam, a few miles upstream from the intake, and it was 11 a. m. before water again gushed through the gravity main.

Water level in the city tank at the pumping station registered zero for nearly two hours. First call for water came from the Schoolcraft Memorial hospital, located on high ground at the fairgrounds site, but numerous other calls from eastside residents were received during the morning.

The Michigan Dimension company tank, supplied by the city, helped to maintain pressure on the westside, the city manager reported.

Freak Snowstorm Slows Traffic On US-2 Monday Night

A freak snowstorm hit a 25-mile wide area west of St. Ignace about 9 o'clock Monday night, retarding traffic for nearly two hours until the Mackinac county road commission put two plows into service, it is reported by the Manistique post of the Michigan state police.

Approximately 12 inches of snow fell in an area extending from about five miles west of St. Ignace almost to Naubinway, state police here reported. Many cars were unable to move on US-2 until plows cleared the highway. It took four hours for many hunters to make the trip from St. Ignace to Manistique.

Field Agent Of Vocation Office Here Wednesday

John Groop, field agent for the office of vocational rehabilitation, will interview vocationally handicapped persons in Manistique Wednesday, November 15. He will be at the county health office and the office of veterans affairs at 9:00 a. m. and at the offices of the Schoolcraft county social welfare board at 1:00 p. m.

The agency which Mr. Groop represents attempts to help vocationally handicapped individuals to rehabilitate themselves by assisting them with surgery, hospitalization, artificial appliances, training, and job placement. Housewives are among those frequently helped.

Vocationally handicapped persons interested in learning more about the services of the O. V. R. are urged to contact Mr. Groop on the above date.

Grand Marais Man Is Killed

George Sayen Dies Monday Under Truck

George Sayen, 39, of Grand Marais, was fatally injured about 2:45 p. m. yesterday when his head was pinned beneath the rear bumper of his loaded panel truck after a jack slipped. The accident occurred on M-77, five miles north of US-2.

The rim of the bumper hit Sayen, crushing his skull. According to state police, he died about a half hour after the accident.

Sayen, accompanied by Alex Niemi, also of Grand Marais, had stopped his truck to change a rear tire. One jack slipped loose after the two men had removed the tire and wheel, and a second jack was used on the rear bumper to lift the truck, heavily loaded with groceries. Sayen crawled partially under the bumper to straighten out the first jack, but the second jack also slipped, pinning his head beneath the bumper rim.

State police reported that clearance between the bumper and ground with the one wheel off, was about two inches.

Niemi caught a ride to Blaney Park and summoned medical help and the state police.

The body was brought to the Morton funeral home in Manistique for burial preparations. Sayen, who was employed on the Trans-Canadian airfield near Grand Marais, leaves a wife and two children.

Cousineau Speaks At Rotary Meeting

J. Earl Cousineau, member of the Manistique high school faculty, gave an illustrated lecture on his Mexican trip last summer to members of the local Rotary club Monday noon.

Cousineau spent the summer in Mexico where he served as a guide. Last year he also served in the Mexican guide service.

Dr. James H. Fyvie also spoke briefly at the session, giving an account of the Manistique high school football trip to East Lansing recently and also telling of a conference held at that time with Charles Ziegler, state highway commissioner, relative to naming the new state highway department ice-breaker the City of Manistique.

St. Joe Opens Season Here Saturday Night

"We won't be so tall as last year but we'll be faster and have more experience. We hope to win our share of ball games."

That was the sentiment expressed today by Coach Tom St. Germain as he made final preparations for St. Joseph's high school's first basketball game of the 1950-51 season.

The Trojans will meet Coach George LeBrasseur's Bark River-Harris Bronchos Saturday night at 8:30 at William Bonifas memorial gym. Reserve teams of the two schools will meet in a preliminary at 7 o'clock.

"Of course, we'll miss big Jack Miron on rebounds and tip-in shots and we could use Ronnie Hirt to advantage," said St. Germain.

"We're not saying we'll match our last year's record of 15 victories and 5 defeats (three of them to Gladstone's U. P. champions).

Carries 12 Players
 "But we've got some good ball players back and I doubt that we'll be a pushover for anyone."

St. Germain said he probably would start Jack Courneene at center, Bill Baker and Don Paulin at forwards and Pete Kutches and Fred Boddy at guards.

The second five probably will have Alfred Dufour and Jim Gravelle at forwards, Wayne Papieneu at center, John Martinac and Bob Sendenburgh at guards.

St. Germain will carry 12 players this year. At present, Tom Brien and Jim Cashin will round out the varsity squad.

While the Trojans aren't taking the Broncos lightly, they'll be playing with an eye toward the game against Escanaba high school a week from Friday night.

Ira Hanson and Harold Anderson of Nahma will officiate the Bark River game.

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

Aintcha glad you're a Michigan State alumnus (synthetic or real)?

Before the current football season started, you'd have had an argument if you had said the Spartans would beat Michigan.

You'd have been shunned as being a "little off" if you had said they would beat Michigan and Notre Dame.

And a couple white-coated attendants would have been after you if you had predicted Coach Biggie Munn's boys would beat Michigan, Notre Dame and Minnesota in one year.

Well, bring on the white-coated attendants—the Spartans have done it!

There will be those who say: "Oh, those teams all are having bad seasons."

True, they aren't the powerhouses of the past. But they all are still formidable opponents.

And Munn and his coaching staff can take credit for doing a marvelous job. After all, the team is predominantly juniors and sophomores. They ought to be even better next year.

The Spartans are reported to have cornered a marvelous freshman team, too. While Michigan, it is said, didn't do so well.

But with success, come the inevitable problems.

And one, we think, Michigan State will have will be the problem of trying to keep Biggie Munn at East Lansing—especially now since Bernie Bierman is through at Minnesota, as we predicted a couple of months ago.

Munn told us last spring that he had bought a lot in East Lansing but he didn't say anything about building.

Now that Bierman is leaving Minneapolis, there'll be talk that Munn will get the job. People say: "Munn has a fine set up at State. He won't leave."

Maybe not. But don't forget that few coaches would refuse a chance to coach at the school where they starred. Munn is popular with Minnesota fans and, what's more, with Minnesota's president.

Will Munn leave Michigan State? It will be interesting to see.

We'd like to bet a sou Minnesota's next coach will be Munn or Bud Wilkinson.

If Munn is offered the job and rejects it it will be because he is in line for the MSC athletic directorship.

Every Sport Fan Should Read This

CHICAGO—(AP)—Fritz Crisler has a word of caution to red-hot football fans.

With Bernie Bierman's resignation at Minnesota in mind, the University of Michigan athletic director unburdened some concern here yesterday.

Speaking at the Quarterback meeting, Crisler discussed how the emotion of football fans sometimes overcomes "rational conclusions."

"I just feel so deeply about Bernie Bierman of Minnesota being forced to quit that I have to comment on the terrific and unwarranted pressure placed on coaches," Crisler said.

"Remember," he added, "those kids playing are only 18, 19 and 20 years old and the coach wants to win as badly as any die-hard partisan."

713 Michigan Schools To Start Basketball

LANSING—(AP)—Five major rules changes face 12,000 Michigan high school basketball players as they swing into their 1950 prep school season.

All Upper Peninsula high schools and those lower peninsula schools which do not sponsor football will be eligible to open their basketball seasons Nov. 15. Most of the remainder will open during the Thanksgiving day week.

The State High School Athletic association reported today that 713 schools will sponsor basketball this winter—the entire roster of the association.

At 20 regional rules meetings held around the state in the past three weeks the coaches have been briefed on the new rules. These are:

1—Time is out for all jump balls.

2—A substitute may enter a game only when the ball is dead and the clock is not running.

3—Special rules covering the last three minutes of a game which were in effect last year have been eliminated this year.

4—A player who commits a foul must raise his hand above his head immediately, or be subject to a technical foul.

5—Two free throws are to be awarded a player who is fouled deliberately or if the foul is committed by a player who "is in an unfavorable position with little chance to reach the ball and who does not make reasonable effort to avoid contact." Two free throws are to be awarded to a player if the "foul is committed for the purposes of profiting by it."

The association said officials have been instructed to be strict in the enforcement of the latter rule in a drive to reduce the amount of deliberate fouling.

Perkins, which will have the advantage of a Wednesday night game with Bark River-Harris for experience, will have Ed Harris, Alford Krouth and Ken Depuydt, returning regulars, and Glenn Anderson, Orville Besson, Jim Vallier, Joe Vandaveyve and Gerald Garigan, returning lettermen.

Navy-Irish Break Is Denied

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—(AP)—Despite rumors to the contrary, Navy and Notre Dame are going to continue to play each other in football, athletic directors of both schools say.

But there's some uncertainty as to where the 1951 game will be. Edward (Moose) Krause said the '51 game would be played in Cleveland where the Irish edged the Middies, 19-10, ten days ago.

Krause squelched reports that the two teams had broken off after a series of 24 games, 20 of which have been won by Notre Dame.

Capt. Howard Chadwell of Navy said the reports of a break, first made public in the Washington Star, are "entirely unfounded." He said he didn't know where next year's game, scheduled for Nov. 3, would be played.

League May Take Saginaw Franchise

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—The class A Central baseball league votes today on whether Saginaw, Mich., will surrender its franchise to the league.

League President Thomas J. Halligan said he is recommending that the six-team league vote to take over the franchise.

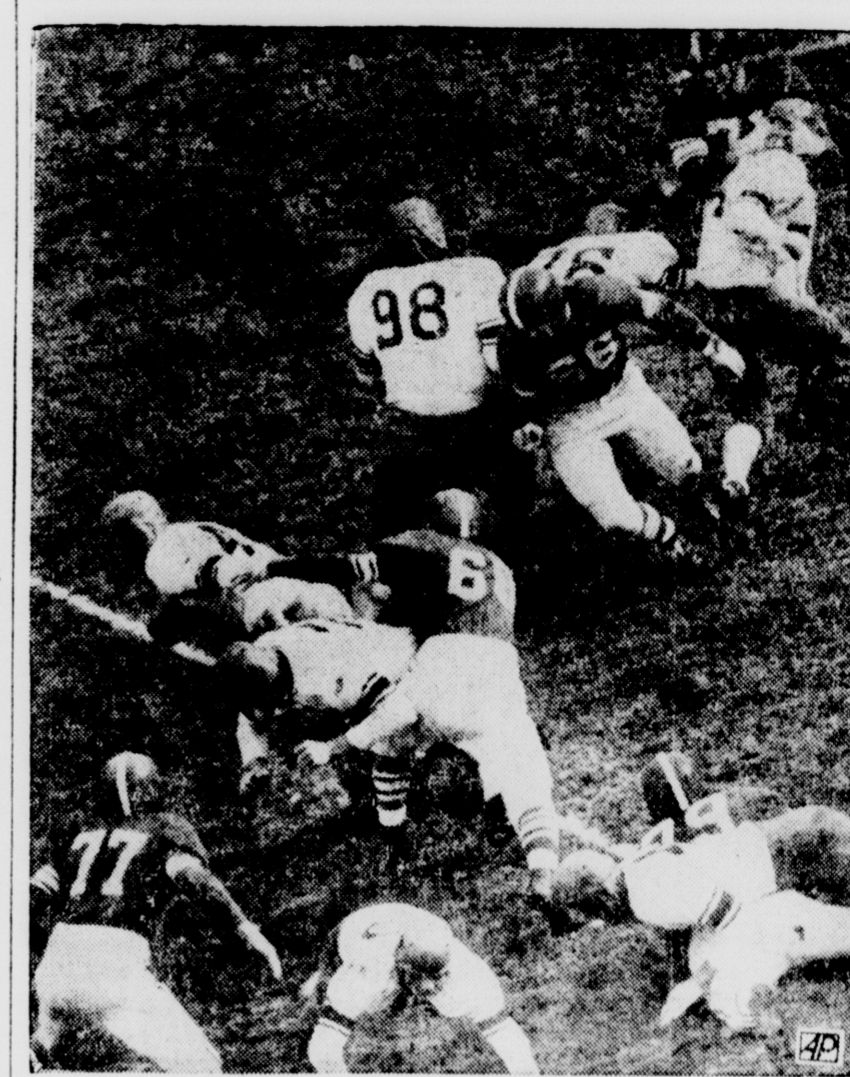

Halligan quoted President J. Lee Gilbert of the Saginaw club as saying his team will not be represented at today's session.

Saginaw has a debt of $28,000 and had asked to be given until Dec. 6 to raise that amount, said Halligan.

If Saginaw is replaced, Youngstown, O., or Erie, Pa., now in the class C Middle Atlantic league, are possible alternates.

SPORT AND BUSINESS
 DETROIT — Off-season from football, Detroit Lion recruit end Leon Hart is engaged in the commercial asphalt business.

Many Coaches Pushed For Minnesota's Post

FANCY BLOCKING GAINS SEVEN YARDS — Back Dave Skrien (left center) of Minnesota picks up seven yards in first period against Michigan State on some tight blocking by teammates, at East Lansing. Identifiable MSC players: Bill Hughes (77), tackle; Frank Kush (60), guard and John Tobin (66), guard. No. 98 is Minnesota tackle Al Markert.

King, Thomas Lauded For Defensive Genius

EAST LANSING—(AP)—Two "forgotten guys" point up Michigan State college's late season splurge as a hell-for-leather defensive football team.

They are defensive end Jim King and defensive tackle Deane Thomas.

With end Dorne Dibble, they were the standouts Saturday, as Michigan State trounced Minnesota's Gophers, 27-0, and held them to 190 yards in 58 rushing and passing plays.

Of these, Deane Thomas, perhaps, is the standout. A big 235-pound sophomore from Chicago, he wasn't even counted on for reserve duty at the start of the season. A recurring colitis condition caused him to miss most of spring practice.

With the illness cured over the summer, he reported for fall practice, only to be called up for the draft. An ROTC deferment fixed that, and Deane began getting in the games. He played bang up ball against Michigan, was a decided factor in the victory over Notre Dame, and may have hit his peak against the Gophers.

King, 187-pound senior end from Gary, Ind., is a little different. He saw little action as a sophomore, but broke into a few games last year. In the flock of good pass receivers, he was almost unnoticed.

But from the very start of the season, he took over one defensive spot and held on to it grimly. He has blocked at least two punts this year, one against Notre Dame, for a touchdown, and has

Decision On Buc Job Due Tomorrow

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Branch Rickey, new boss of the Pittsburgh Pirates, expects to have a decision on Manager Billy Meyer's job future by tomorrow.

The announcement will determine whether the Pirates keep Rickey for the remaining year of his contract or discard him now.

If he's fired, Meyer will collect $40,000 from the Pirates for tearing up his three-year contract.

Rickey and Meyer talked for three hours yesterday but Rickey said only:

"No decision yet."

MINNEAPOLIS—(AP)—The line of candidates to succeed Bernie Bierman as head football coach at the University of Minnesota was forming today, but officially there was nobody in it.

Word of Bierman's resignation hardly had spread when admirers of various grid-iron geniuses got to work nominating their man for the post.

The nominations came from every part of the country.

Athletic Director Ike Armstrong stuck to his statement of yesterday that he "wouldn't even discuss a successor until the season is over."

Wilkinson Tops
 Names of some of the coaches were repeated. One of those was Bud Wilkinson, popular coach at Oklahoma University. At Oklahoma City, Wilkinson said he had not been approached and that he had no comment on what he might do if the job were offered him.

Wilkinson, who played under Bierman in 1934 and 1935, was quoted by a close friend as saying previously that "If Bernie can't make it, no other coach can, either." The friend added he was convinced Wilkinson wouldn't take the post.

The same word came from Dallas Ward, former assistant to Bierman, now at Colorado University.

The name of another Minnesota alumnus, Clarence "Biggie" Munn, whose Michigan State team administered the sixth defeat to this year's Gophers only Saturday, also stuck to the unofficial lists. Munn was freshman coach under Bierman in the latter's first year at Minnesota—1932.

Still another alumnus, Win Brockmeyer, now a successful coach at Wausau, Wis., high school, was mentioned. Several persons expressed doubt, though, that he would "stick his neck out."

Paul Brown, coach of the Cleveland pro team, also was suggested, along with Henry Frnka, mentor at Tulane. Prospects of Brown and Frnka, however, were considered pretty slim by fans in this locality.

Wife Is "Relieved"
 On the other side of the picture, came the "No comment," reply of Dana X. Bible, athletic director at the University of Texas, when asked whether Bierman would be considered as head football coach at Texas. Head Coach Blair Cherry will retire at Texas after the season ends.

While Bierman had little to say, Mrs. Bierman said the word came as a "relief."

"You know, the Big Ten is getting to be a young man's coaching field," Mrs. Bierman said. Bierman is 56 years old.

"I knew this day was inevitable," she added. "I just didn't think it would come so soon."

Bucks, Sooners Displace Army

NEW YORK—(AP)—Ohio State tops the nation's college football teams in the weekly Associated Press poll after a tight five-club battle.

For the second week in succession the point system determined the winner with both Ohio State and Oklahoma squeezing past Army, last week's winner.

Army received most first place votes, 72, but lost out in the point system tabulation of the 308 ballots from football writers and sportscasters. Ohio had 66 firsts and Oklahoma 63.

Closest Finish
 A first place vote counts 10 points. A second counts nine. And so on down to one point for a 10th place ballot. As a result Ohio finished with 2,412 points, Oklahoma 2,381 and Army 2,272.

Next came California and Kentucky. All the first five received at least 2,000 points. It was the closest finish of the year.

Apparently Ohio lost no prestige in its tight winning battle with Wisconsin, 19-14. The Buckeyes (6-1) face another test Saturday in eighth-rated Illinois (6-1).

Oklahoma, too, had to struggle to keep its perfect record intact. Kansas led the Sooners into the last quarter before Oklahoma blasted out its 28th straight victory and seventh of the year, 33-13. They play Missouri this week.

Army called its shots in a romp over New Mexico, 51-0, for its seventh straight. The Cadets get a chance to show their worth against a Pacific coast conference eleven Saturday when they visit the west to play Stanford.

MSC Moves Up

California whipped UCLA, 35-0, in what was supposed to have been a crucial test. As a result they moved up two positions to fourth. Next for the Bears (8-0) is San Francisco.

Despite a 49-21 triumph over Mississippi State for a 9-0 record, Kentucky dropped a peg to fifth place in the standings with 43 firsts as compared to 36 for California. Kentucky has two to go, North Dakota and Tennessee.

Tennessee and Michigan State were the only additions to the top 10 with SMU and Miami dropping out. SMU fell from seventh to 14th after losing to Texas A&M, 25-20, and the 13-13 tie with Louisville dumped Miami from ninth to 17th place.

Wildcats Prepare Defense For Wolves

EVANSTON, Ill.—(AP)—Northwestern's ground defense is getting most of the attention as the Wildcats prepare to tackle Michigan Saturday.

Coach Bob Voigts expressed dissatisfaction with that phase of his team's work last Saturday against Purdue.

Two Northwestern defensive regulars who missed the Purdue game probably will be ready to play against Michigan. They are ends Chuck Hagmann and John Steeb. They worked out yesterday.

Michigan Line Gets Plaudits For Work

ANN ARBOR—(AP)—The resurgence of Michigan's offensive line played a big part in the Wolverines win over Indiana Saturday.

Tom Johnson, burly Muskegon Heights tackle, was the key man. Like Johnson, Capt. Al Wahl, guard, Pete Kinyan and Tom Keel, center, Carl Kraeger and ends Lowell Perry and Harry Allis turned in a fine blocking performance.

"They blocked well," said Coach Bennie Oosterbaan, "like they did against Army, four weeks ago."

If Jack Blott's line blocks as well the rest of the way, Michigan might do very well against Northwestern here Saturday and powerful Ohio State at Columbus the following week.

A double win, unlikely but possible, would give the Wolverines a 4-1-1 Big Ten record.

The Ohio Buckeyes represent a terrific challenge and one that was regarded as unstopable a week ago. However, the feeling in the Michigan camp is that it can be beaten.

Oosterbaan and his aides are pleased with mounting signs of confidence among the players.

The varsity put in only a light workout yesterday but a bright note appeared when Leo Koceski, regular wingback, scrimmaged for the first time since he was injured four weeks ago. Though he lacked some early season speed, he was apparently able to take the rough going.

Most Schools End Season Saturday

(By The Associated Press)

It's goodbye to football for all Michigan colleges except two this weekend.

Every school except Michigan and the University of Detroit will wind up its 1950 football warfare by Saturday.

Michigan has a game coming up on Nov. 25 with Ohio State and U. of D. will travel to San Francisco for a Nov. 26 contest.

Six of this weekend's battles are interstate affairs. On Friday Adrian will go to Pennsylvania to play Gannon at night. Another Friday night contest sends Northern Michigan to Michigan Normal.

Saturday Western Michigan will be seeking its first Mid-America conference win when it goes to Ohio U. U. of D. goes on the road to play Oklahoma A. & M. and will be after its sixth victory.

Kiwanis Hears Talk By Edick

High School Trends Traced By Principal

The present day high school curriculum has been spread too thin in attempting to provide the education that modern society demands, to meet the needs created by social and economic changes, E. E. Edick, Escanaba senior high school principal, said in a talk before the Kiwanis club Monday noon.

The automobile, radio, television, telephone, atomic energy and other modern developments have greatly changed history, science, vocabularies and other courses in the high school, Edick pointed out. Even home and family responsibilities have been taken over by the schools in recent years.

Readjustments in the high school curriculum have become necessary, according to Principal Edick, who pointed out that one of the solutions to the problem is the extension of the educational program to the community college.

The extra grades in a community college would, in addition to preparing students for the universities, offer terminal courses, which would qualify graduates for useful vocations. The community college would also be open for adults wishing to take vocational courses, Edick added.

Edick said the high school was originally created to prepare students for university and college study, but he pointed out only 25 per cent of Escanaba graduates leave the community to attend higher institutions of learning. The high school curriculum, he said, has for years felt the influence of the college preparatory courses offered by the college preparatory academies in the early history of this country. It has been enriched in recent years, however, by courses in the useful arts to benefit students not intending to go to college.

"The great need," Mr. Edick concluded, "is for teamwork by citizens and school people in planning a high school program to meet the community's needs for 25 and even 50 years in the future."

Escanaba Sailor Is Now On Cruise On Mediterranean

Robert Anderson, machinist's mate, first class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Anderson of 1417 North 22nd St., Escanaba, Mich., who is attached to Carrier Air Group Seven embarked aboard the aircraft-carrier USS Midway in the Mediterranean, is becoming well acquainted with the peoples and customs of the countries which border the Mediterranean.

During the month of September, the Midway visited Palermo, Sicily; Algiers, Algeria; Cagliari, Sardinia; and Augusta, Sicily, all in that order.

Other ports the local Navy man has visited since he boarded the giant carrier for the current cruise includes Gibraltar; Athens, Greece; Famagusta, Cyprus; Beirut, Lebanon; the Island of Crete; and the French Riviera. While the ship was anchored near Cannes on the Riviera, some of the personnel aboard took guided tours to Paris, France; and Switzerland.

The USS Midway is operating with the U. S. Sixth Fleet, which is under the command of Vice Admiral John J. Ballentine. The Sixth Fleet is cruising in the Mediterranean under the control of Admiral Richard L. Conolly, commander-in-chief, U. S. Naval Forces, Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Aluminum Cut For Civilians

WASHINGTON—(P)—The government today slashed the non-military use of aluminum by about 35 per cent starting in January.

William H. Harrison, administrator of the National Production Authority, announced the order at a news conference.

Replying to a question he said the order "very likely" will cause some unemployment in particular factories but he would expect that industry would have some opportunity to prepare before January and use some substitutes for aluminum.

Harrison said that in the final analysis this order does not take aluminum away from non-military uses. More than 30 per cent of the supply is directly needed for the present defense program, including stockpiles, he said, "And

Seven Ore Cars Derail On C&NW

Caboose Also Leaves Track At Tamarack

The caboose and seven cars at the tail end of an 80-car diesel-powered North Western ore train bound from Gogebic range to Escanaba docks jumped the track and overturned into a muskeg swamp near Tamarack lake about 27 miles northwest of Iron River near the Iron-Gogebic county line Saturday afternoon.

The derailment spilled 350 tons of ore into the snowy swamp and damaged a stretch of track of undetermined length.

Emergency wrecker crews of the Ashland and Peninsula divisions were moved in from Ironwood and Escanaba Sunday, and work was to be completed today on restoring the track in time for the west bound way freight late Monday afternoon.

The Tamarack derailment occurred about 2:30 p. m., Saturday. No one was reported hurt in the mishap, and the two-unit, 3,000 horsepower diesel locomotive continued on its way with the 73 cars which remained on the rails, passing through Iron River at 7:25 p. m., Saturday evening. A caboose was coupled on at Stambaugh yards as replacement for the one deposited in the swamp, and the train continued on to Escanaba.

The 35-mile North Western right-of-way between Iron River and Watersmeet, route of the old Cordwood Limited, was resurrected this season from a sleepy idleness and subjected to the pounding of daily ore trains hastening ore from U. S. Steel and Republic Steel mines and the Gogebic range in an all-rail movement 200 miles to Lake Michigan's Bay de Noc at Escanaba.

this order simply distributes the available supply to all non-military users in accord with the pattern of use earlier in the year.

John Eskola, chaplain of the post, was master of ceremonies. Post color bearers were Albert Miller, Horace Labumbard, Tom Tennant, Tommy Fay and Bill Turan. The Pledge of Allegiance was given by the assembly. Father Anthony Schloss gave the invocation and as speaker of the day delivered an interesting and inspiring talk on "Patriotism." Father Schloss pronounced the benediction.
